

Read with a child...
share the joy!

- Praise the child.
- Share the reading...
take turns or take over if
the child is frustrated.
- Provide support...don't try
to be the teacher.
- When the child stops at a
hard word:
 - wait for him to try it.
 - say "Start the word."
 - or say "Skip the word,
then come back."
- Ask if the correction looks or
sounds right or makes sense.
- When a mistake is made
and it makes sense,
let the child continue.
- When a mistake is made that
doesn't make sense, use
some of the ideas from above.
- Tell the word when you think
it's too hard or she might
not understand its meaning.
- Talk about the book as you go.
- Have FUN!

Kansas Reading Association
www.kansasread.org

Read with a child...
share the joy!

- Praise the child.
- Share the reading...
take turns or take over if
the child is frustrated.
- Provide support...don't try
to be the teacher.
- When the child stops at a
hard word:
 - wait for him to try it.
 - say "Start the word."
 - or say "Skip the word,
then come back."
- Ask if the correction looks or
sounds right or makes sense.
- When a mistake is made
and it makes sense,
let the child continue.
- When a mistake is made that
doesn't make sense, use
some of the ideas from above.
- Tell the word when you think
it's too hard or she might
not understand its meaning.
- Talk about the book as you go.
- Have FUN!

Kansas Reading Association
www.kansasread.org

Read with a child...
share the joy!

- Praise the child.
- Share the reading...
take turns or take over if
the child is frustrated.
- Provide support...don't try
to be the teacher.
- When the child stops at a
hard word:
 - wait for him to try it.
 - say "Start the word."
 - or say "Skip the word,
then come back."
- Ask if the correction looks or
sounds right or makes sense.
- When a mistake is made
and it makes sense,
let the child continue.
- When a mistake is made that
doesn't make sense, use
some of the ideas from above.
- Tell the word when you think
it's too hard or she might
not understand its meaning.
- Talk about the book as you go.
- Have FUN!

Kansas Reading Association
www.kansasread.org